

National Aeronautics and Space Administration

Ames Research Center Research Methods Tutorial

September, 2015

Abstract provided to:

Professional Education Chair

Dr. Maarten Uijt de Haag

Ohio University

1 (740) 707-1290

professional.ed.chair@dasconline.org

Tutorial Abstract

Title of Tutorial:

Research Methods

Abstract:

A guiding principle for conducting research in technology, science, and engineering, leading to innovation is based on our use of research methodology (both qualitative and quantitative). A brief review of research methodology will be presented with an overview of NASA process in developing aeronautics technologies and other things to consider in research including what is innovation.